Germany Fears Outcome Of French Occupation; Ready to Capitulate

Has Plan for Guarantees to Paris Government and International Supervision.

FEELERS OUT IN LONDON

By Associated Press.

LONDON, March 15.—The information printed by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph to the effect that Germany has up her sleeve a peace plan that includes guarantees to France as well as international supervision of her finances attracted considerable attention here today.

The article, based on advices which the newspaper says are thoroughly reliable, asserts that Germany is not prepared to bring the plan into the light until she is assured it will receive more attention than the proposals she had ready for the London and Paris premiers' conference.

Unofficial overtures were recently made to the British cabinet by Germany, the correspondent continued, as to whether Great Britain would enter the opening wedge in peace negotiations by suggesting openly that a definite German offer would be considered in London. These advances, the article asserts, did not draw out the British authorities, and consequently Germany is reluctant to disclose her hand.

The correspondent learns that Germany is ready to accept international financial control to an important extent and that she is willing to be a party to an international guarantee of the French frontiers as established by the peace treaty.

LOCAL INTEREST IN ANNIVERSARY JEWISH TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL

Connellsville Jewry is interested in the announcement that was made today by the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives at Denver, Colo., of plans for a unique convention, which will be held there in June, and which many prominent local Jewish residents who are supporters of the hospital have been invited to attend. The institution has sent out a general call for the convention to 50,000 men and women throughout the United States who are helping its work, and is urging them to participate in the preparations which will be made at the convention for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the institution.

The National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives was the first free hospital in the United States for the care of tuberculous poor. Men, women and children have come to it for treatment from all parts of the country. And since it was opened, with a single small building, it has grown to be an extensive institution with 12 buildings contributing toward the health and happiness of thousands of sick patients. The first building housed 34 patients. To date more than 4,000 persons have been treated at this hospital, and 80 per cent of these have been restored fully to health and economic independence. Of the remainder, 15 per cent have been improved in health, and those whose cases were advanced beyond the stage of improvement were made comfortable and contented.

Originally sponsored by the Order B'nai Brith, a great national Jewish body, the hospital now has directors in all parts of the United States. Among the local residents interested in its work is Henry Goldsmith.

38 GREAT STORIES ON MARRIED LIFE TO APPEAR IN COURIER

Irvin S. Cobb

Twenty - three great American writers have written 38 special stories on marriage, to be run in The Courier. The first of these, "The Second Coming of Mrs. Bain's First Husband," today, is by Irvin S. Cobb. Scarcely a person in the country is there that does not know of Mr. Cobb. His story appears on Page 11.

This is not a series of discussions or essays on wedlock. It is a series of short stories of three to six columns in length; each with a plot, incidents and characters, the same as other short-and popular fiction of the day, dealing with different phases of the marriage relation.

Fire Destroys Almshouse; Nine Persons Perish

By Associated Press.

ANGELICA, N. Y., March 15.—Seven women and two men were burned to death in a fire at the county almshouse today. The women's quarters and the administration building were destroyed.

The fire started from a gas explosion in the basement of the two-story wooden structure where 34 women patients were quartered and quickly spread to the administration building.

The building where the women were quartered was 250 feet long and joined a concrete structure where the 20 men inmates were housed.

Charles Sanborn, head stableman at the institution, lost his life in an effort to rescue the women. The night firemen whose name has not been learned was killed by the explosion. Six women were cremated in their beds and another was killed when she leaped from a upper window of the blazing building.

The structure was built 46 years ago. The right wing burned five years ago. A concrete addition was then erected. This resisted the fire but the rest of the structure was burned.

COUNTY FIELD MEET TO BE HELD MAY 12 ON OVAL AT DAWSON

The committee in charge of arrangements for the track meet to be held this spring under the auspices of the Fayette County Interscholastic Athletic Association has announced that May 12 has been selected as the date and the Dawson Driving Park as the place. The date will not conflict with that of the W. P. I. A. League meet, which will be held on May 26.

Connellsville High School will have teams in both meets if present plans carry. Track work is now in the school here. It has been attempted before but without much success and another effort is to be made to introduce it. C. H. Wine will be in charge of the work.

The boys of the school are much interested in the coming events and there will be a likely field of candidates. A track meet offers openings in many lines and local youths will probably be entered in every branch. If a creditable showing is made in the county track meet, the Color team will likely be entered in the W. P. I. A. League event.

The committee will notify the secretary of the county league that the date has been selected and a meeting of the league members will be called soon to advance plans for the meet. Some of the other schools in the county have participated in similar events held before at Uniontown and they are active factors in pushing the biggest meet of all.

At a recent meeting of the league when it was first planned to have the field competition, expressions indicated that practically every school would have an entry in some branch or other.

The committee on arrangements includes Bela B. Smith, superintendent of the Connellsville Schools; R. K. Smith, superintendent of the Dunbar Township Schools, and W. E. Tietbohl, principal of the Dunbar Township High School.

BROWN MURDER CASE GOES TO JURY DURING DAY

Arguments Completed Before Adjournment of Court at Noon.

CHARGE THIS AFTERNOON

The Brown murder case was given to the jury at 1:55 o'clock. There was no verdict at 3 o'clock.

The case of Thomas W. T. Thompson, colored, charged with the murder of Charles Brown, at the Luzerne coke plant, was expected to go to the jury between 2 and 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The summing up of both defense and Commonwealth had been completed before noon.

Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, the defense lawyer, consumed two hours in his address to the jury and District Attorney William A. Miller talked for a little less than an hour.

The court announced it would charge the jury at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Testimony in the case was completed last evening.

The defendant, Thomas William Talbert Thompson, was arraigned Monday morning at 10:18 o'clock and the jury was empaneled at 5:10 o'clock the same day after the panel had been exhausted and counsel agreed upon two jurors who had previously been challenged. Commonwealth rested its case at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the defense consumed only two hours in presenting its case. The defendant was on direct examination one hour. The Commonwealth took but 15 minutes in the cross examination.

Taking the stand in his own defense Thompson admitted to the killing but claimed that the crime was committed in a moment of excitement when he feared that he was in danger of being shot by the defendant. When he finished his direct testimony there was little to cross examine; his narration of the incidents leading up to and following the killing corroborating the Commonwealth witnesses in almost every detail but offering in addition his reason for committing the crime.

Following the argument in the coke yards, Thompson said he went to House No. 3 where he had his traveling bag and got his revolver and started for Brownsville to have a warrant issued for Brown. Arriving at the office of Justice of the Peace Martin H. Heas, Thompson said he explained his mission and the justice informed him that he could do nothing for him. At this time Thompson said he told the justice that he was afraid to get within arm's length of the defendant as he feared Brown would shoot him. He returned to the plant, ate his supper at the boarding house and slept in his accustomed place that night, arising about 6 o'clock in the morning and going shortly afterwards to the boarding house for his breakfast.

As Thompson walked by the door leading from the kitchen where the colored employes ate, to the adjoining room, where the white men ate, he said he saw Brown seated at the table. Their eyes met, he said, and he became frightened and commanded Brown to throw up his hands and Brown refused to comply. He commanded a second and third time and still Brown refused and then he said he saw Brown's arm move and his shoulder hunch and his arm extend toward his hip pocket. Thompson opened fire, shooting twice. When he left the room, he said Brown was still sitting in the chair and he did not know whether he had killed him or not. He then fled to the railroad yards where he hid under a box car all day, coming out after dark and getting a freight car for Brownsville where he was arrested by officers.

From that time on, Thompson said he knew little that transpired because he was so badly frightened, one of the officers having told him that a mob was waiting for him.

The grand jury made its final returns to the court shortly before court adjourned last evening. During the day 126 bills were returned, the first since Friday morning. The final report is as follows:

Number of bills of indictment acted upon	245
Number of true bills	195
Number of bills ignored	50
Number of bills withdrawn	0
Number of witnesses examined	444

Watson C. Murphy of Franklin township No. 2 was foreman of the jury and Nettie Smith of Dawson was secretary.

His Love Spurned, Youth Ends Life Before Sweetheart

James K. Aldrich, 19, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Aldrich of North Pittsburg street, Wednesday night ended his life by sending a bullet through his temple after being told by his 14-year-old sweetheart, Mary Flora, that she did not love him. The girl is a daughter of Mrs. Joseph Flora of South Connellsville. The mother conducts a restaurant at Crawford avenue and Arch street.

The shooting occurred about 9:45 o'clock in the kitchen of the restaurant where Aldrich had been conversing with the girl. According to the story of the latter he drew the revolver and shot himself in her presence. Her brother, John Flora, and two sisters, Margaret and Frances, were seated at a table near the front of the restaurant conversing with a man named Andy Boldy.

Mary Flora ran to the police station and told Patrolman Andrew Thomas a man had shot himself in the restaurant. The officer found Aldrich lying in a pool of blood. He called a physician who pronounced Aldrich dead. He had probably died instantly. Assistant Chief P. M. Rubl then arrived and took charge.

The two men in the restaurant at the time were taken to the police station to be held as witnesses and the girl was also held for a time. The father of the young man was notified and he directed that the body be removed to the funeral parlors of J. E. Sims.

Examination of the body disclosed a handy-billy in a hip pocket and a note was found indicating that suicide had been contemplated. Several letters from the Flora girl were also found. The note, to the mother, dated March 15, read:

"Goodby, Mother:

"I am going to shoot myself at the Yough House tonight at Room 38. That is all. Goodby, Mother, for the last time. This is your son, James Aldrich."

On the fingers of the dead man were found two rings belonging to the girl.

Aldrich was employed as a workman on the Youghiogheny river bridge during the time it was being repaired. He came from Republic. After completing the bridge job he secured work as night waiter in a local restaurant. It is also reported Aldrich was a private detective and had aided in securing evidence against bootleggers.

NO FORMAL PROTEST AGAINST PROPOSED MINE RATING RULES

But Some West Virginia Operators Have Doubt as to How They Will Work.

ASSIGNED CAR MUST GO

Is the Almost Unanimous Opinion but Nothing Can Be Done Until Interstate Commerce Commission Gives Decision on Complaint Before It.

Although some objections were raised to the proposed mine rating rules which the Baltimore & Ohio railroad expects to put into effect in the near future, no formal protest was made against them at a membership meeting of the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators Association which was held in Fairmont yesterday. The meeting was called at the request of the operators from the Clarksburg district, who had previously passed resolutions opposing the proposed rules, but at the operators' meeting nothing tangible was presented. Daniel Howard, one of the veteran operators of the Fairmont region expressed the fear that the new rules would mean a return to an iniquitous system which prevailed some years ago, but this belief was not generally shared by other operators. Mr. Howard particularly objected to using the physical condition of a mine as the base for its rating. It was pointed out, however, that physical conditions were only one of four factors, and that the most restrictive of the four would prevail.

W. L. Andrews, traffic manager of the Consolidation Coal Company, explained the proposed rules in detail, having participated in a number of conferences with railroad officials relative to same. He pointed out that the Transportation Act makes it obligatory upon the railroad to fairly distribute cars, and declared that if operators expect to get into a position whereby they can, by legal means, compel an equal distribution, the new mine rating rules will give them this opportunity.

The operators at Fairmont were practically unanimous in opposition assigned cars and would like to see some ruling against them incorporated in the mine rating rules, but nothing of this nature can be done until the assigned car case is decided by the Interstate Commerce Commision. Sentiment among those in touch with this phase of the situation believe there is an even chance for eliminating the assigned cars.

"On the basis of the testimony and the evidence it is a ten to one bet that the assigned cars will go, but the fact that some of the members of the commission would rather give up a quart of blood than the assigned cars for railroad fuel brings the thing down to an even bet," one member expressed it.

It has been proposed by some operators that if the assigned car evil is not eliminated, such cars should at least be charged against railroad divisions, if not against individual mines.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Bourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach. Inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advertisement.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupify the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of those disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself, without consulting a physician.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

THURSDAY EVE'G, MAR. 15, 1923.

REDUCE EXPENDITURES INSTEAD OF INCREASING TAXES.

If the members of the General Assembly were as eager to promote economy in the administration of the state government as they are zealous in the pursuit of new objects of taxation, the people back home would have more occasion to feel that they were, indeed, being represented at the state capital. Scarcely a day passes, however, but that some new scheme for adding to the tax burden is not proposed, and wholly without regard to the justice or equity of the measures. "Raise more money" is the slogan certain members of the Legislature appear to have adopted and they are striving to make the attainment of this object the chief activity of the present session.

Of the many tax plans proposed none are more objectionable than the suggested tax on manufactures which both the Legislature and Governor Pinchot seem inclined to favor as a means for the solution of the budget problem.

"Pennsylvania's great manufacturing pre-eminence," says the Philadelphia Ledger, "has been attained through its wise policy of encouraging its manufacturing industries and in its consistent refusal to follow the lead of neighboring states in imposing this sort of a tax. To depart from that policy now would not only check the growth of the state's manufactures and discourage the coming of new enterprises, but it would operate in a great measure to undo the governor's effort to bring about economy in the conduct of the state's affairs and to eliminate the waste which is largely responsible for the "mess" he was elected to clean up.

"A tax on manufactures such as is being urged with increasing zeal by certain element, at Harrisburg, would yield far more money than is needed, either for the educational needs of the state or for any other of the objects dependent upon state support. It would inevitably lead to a new orgy of expenditure by the Legislature. This has been the invariable experience in the past, and this is not the moment to experiment or temporize."

The interests of their constituents and the whole state as well will be infinitely better served by the members of the Legislature if they center their attention on a reduction of public expenditures instead of searching in all directions for new means of exacting tribute from already overburdened taxpayers.

The Legislative dentists who extracted the teeth from the enforcement bill displayed considerable skill in the operation, but less sympathy for the patient than consideration for the "wet" bottle-holders who stood by as interested observers.

In more than a half century of life at the throttle the late "Davy" Randolph was typical of the loyalty and efficiency with which locomotive engineers serve their employer and safeguard the traveling public. As such, and as a good citizen, affectionate parent and kindly neighbor, he will not soon be forgotten.

Wonder is that some bachelor member of the Legislature has not proposed levying a tax on babies, so frantic seems the search for new means of raising money.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

I'M HUNGRY, MA.

He comes in twenty times a day
And always has the same to say:
"I'm hungry, Ma!"
He'll hurry to the pantry shelf
And take what he can find himself,
A piece of cake, a slice of bread,
An orange or an apple red,
Then bolt it down and hurry back
To replenish for another snack:
"I'm hungry, Ma!"

"I'm hungry, Ma!" 'Twas not an hour
Ago I saw him let devour
A piece of pie!
He washed it down with milk, and fled,
And now he's begging to be fed.
The cookie jar is empty quite,
Was never such an appetite!
Fast vanishes the food we buy,
And still he has the nerve to cry:
"I'm hungry, Ma!"

At ten years old, it seems to me
This is a youngster's constant plea:
"I'm hungry, Ma!"
We try to stay his appetite,
We heap his plate with food at night,
Potatoes, meat and early greens,
A double-share of peas and beans,
And when it's time to go to bed
We'd think him ill unless he said
"I'm hungry, Ma!"

Oh, healthy lad of ten years old,
A richer wealth have you than gold—
"I'm hungry, Ma!"
When you have grown as old as I
And lost your appetite for pie,
Perhaps you'll smile as now I do
Upon a little boy like you
Who rushes in and stands about
And greets his mother with the shout:
"I'm hungry, Ma!"

JOSEPH J. TENER IS EMPHATIC IN STATING FACTS

Pittsburg Citizen Declares Tanlac Made Clean Sweep of Digestive Troubles.

"I now know for myself, and not from hearsay, that Tanlac is a great medicine, for I have tried it," recently affirmed Joseph J. Tener, a well-known resident of 39 Barbeau street, Pittsburg, Pa.

"Indigestion had caused me no end of suffering for a year or more. Many a time I felt like I could eat, but when the food was put on the table, somehow I couldn't eat a thing. I was never without a splitting headache and always felt tired and played-out. I had no energy and my work seemed harder and harder every day. I lost weight continually, my nerves were upset, and I had begun to worry as to what the end would be.

"Finally a friend put me on to Tanlac and I have found it even better than he said it was. My appetite has come back in full force and my stomach acts and feels like new. With my old time ease and energy. Tanlac will always get a good recommendation from me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold. Advertisement.

THE PILL HOLD-UP

THIS actually happened and is well worth telling.

The drug clerk was just about to close up. It was getting late. The last policeman to rub his nose against the plate glass window, was far down the avenue when the clerk switched off the electric lights and turned the lock. Then it all happened.

A man rushed up to the door. "Say, man, I want a box of Beecham's Pills. Simply must have them!" he exclaimed. "Store's closed for the day," remarked the clerk as he pocketed the key. "Like thunder it is!" shouted the late comer, "I've got to have a box of Beecham's Pills tonight." The altercation grew heated. There was an exchange of blows.

Then the clerk took off his broken glasses, unlocked the door and handed out a 50 cent box of Beecham's Pills.

Can you beat it?

Beecham's Pills are so pleasantly effective in making sick stomachs well, sluggish livers active, and lazy bowels to function as they should, that Beecham's steadfast friends and supporters sometimes overflow with strenuous enthusiasm.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

"Waddling Like a Duck."

For a child who stands with protruding abdomen, the best exercise to strengthen the abdominal muscles is to "waddle like a duck." Have the child place the hands on the hips as an aid to balancing, take a squatting position at the same time keeping the trunk as erect as possible, then walk about the room with short steps. This is an amusing, as well as beneficial, exercise.

DUEL INDEFINITELY PUT OFF

Must Be Admitted That Israel Putnam's Method of Conducting It Was Somewhat Disconcerting.

Old Israel Putnam had his own ideas about dueling, although it was regarded in his day as more or less a part of a gentleman's code of honor. It once happened that Putnam unintentionally offended a brother officer in the Continental army. The dispute arose at a wine table, and the officer demanded instant reparation. Putnam, being a little excited, expressed his willingness to accompodate him with a fight, and it was stipulated that the duel should take place on the following morning, and that they should fight without seconds. At the appointed time the officer went to the dueling ground armed with swords and pistols. Putnam was there before him on the field and had taken a stand at the opposite end, musket in hand. Catching sight of his opponent he leveled his musket and fired. The astonished officer ran toward Putnam, who was deliberately reloading his piece. "What are you about?" he demanded. "Is this the conduct of an American officer and a man of honor?"

"What am I about?" inquired Putnam. "A pretty question to ask a man whom you intended to murder; I'm about to kill you; and if you don't beat a retreat in less time than it would take Old Heath to hang a Tory you are a gone dog." He rammed home the charge in his musket and threw the piece to his shoulder; whereat the would-be duelist took to his heels and fled for his life.

PROGRESS MADE IN TANNING

Process Known to Be at Least Three Thousand Years Old, but Improvements Came Slowly.

At first skins were cured by simply cleaning and drying. Then it was found the texture of the leather improved by the use of smoke, sour milk, various oils and the brains of the animals themselves. Later it was discovered that certain astringent barks and vegetables effected permanent changes in the texture of skins and stopped decay. The ancient Egyptians possessed this knowledge, for engravings on their tombs depict the process of tanning. In China specimens of leather have been discovered in company with other relics that prove them to be over three thousand years old. The Romans used leather which they tanned with oil, alum and bark. Early explorers in America found the Indians wearing skins prepared with buffalo dung, oil and clay.

No improvement in the general methods of preparing leather took place from the most primitive times until about 1790, when the use of lime to loosen the hair was introduced. By 1825 English tanners were attempting to introduce new methods by which the tanning process could be shortened. One of the pioneers in these experiments was John Burridge, the inventor of the barkometer, an instrument for determining the strength of tanning liquors.

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perrysburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perrysburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Timely Questions To Be Discussed At M. E. Meeting

At the evangelistic meeting of the First Methodist Episcopal Church this evening, Dr. B. W. Hutchinson will discuss very timely questions as to whether the church and Christianity are impotent in face of the world collapse. Are people simply taking their superficial religion for granted? Or, are men digging down to bed rock to discover whether they have any solid foundation under them?

Has Christianity failed? Is it true that "it has never been tried?" Is there not something further and beyond Jesus Christ? Men are not satisfied with what they hear in the Church and are asking questions. "Is there anything final in religion anyhow?"

This will be "Men's Night." The Methodist male quartet will sing. The service begins at 7:30, in the Cameron school building.

A soiled collar can't betray your personal habits any quicker than this one thing.

PEOPLE often judge you as much by your appearance as by what you say. And the opinion the other fellow forms about you frequently has almost everything to do with the way you get on—both in business and socially.

Perhaps you never stopped to think about it, but it's a psychological fact that when you are talking, people intuitively watch your lips and teeth. That's where the sound comes from; that's where the eyes go.

And when your teeth are not clean—when they are dull, unkempt looking or badly stained with tobacco—they mark you down at once as an unfastidious person. To a great many people unclean teeth are perfectly revolting. So really clean teeth become more than merely a matter of good taste.

Only the right dentifrice—consistently used—will protect you against such criticism. Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. The first tube you buy (25 cents) or the free sample (see coupon) will prove this to you.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And, moreover, just as Listerine is the safe antiseptic, so Listerine Tooth Paste is the safe dentifrice. It cleans yet it cannot injure the enamel

What are your teeth saying about you today?

Better!

ATLANTIC engineers have perfected a still better Atlantic Motor Oil—

"Booster Night" Will Be Observed By City League Tonight; Race Gets Tight

B. & O. and Frat Open Bill; Then Casey and St. Vincent Play.

MAY CHANGE STANDING

Games that may have a direct bearing on the final standing of the City League which continues for only two more weeks will be played tonight at the Parochial Hall. This evening has been set aside as "Booster Night" and every sporting man and woman in the city who desires to give a helping hand towards keeping the game on the plane it has been established is invited to attend the double bill.

The first clash is scheduled for 7:45 o'clock between the Baltimore & Ohio team and the Unity Fraternity five. The second will follow immediately between the Casey Club and the St. Vincent team.

The Fraternity has to win its game to stay in the league race. The railroaders have hit their stride and it will take fast stepping by the Frat quintet to come out ahead. What will be the final standings in the league cannot yet be forecast but every team is out for a victory.

In the second contest the St. Vincent team will strive to hold its lead over the Casey five. The Caseys were in third place last Tuesday but a victory over the Legion while the Frat lost to Leisenring moved the club into second position. A Casey victory would give the team first place and if the Frat also wins that aggregation would move up to second, with only a half game keeping it from tying with the Casey organization. The outcome of neither game can be forecast, however.

The crowd on Tuesday was the largest of the season, indicating the increased interest in the league. With such important clashes coming off tonight the fans will all be back. It is a fact that every week the race grows tighter. Admission tonight only will be 50 cents instead of 30 cents.

Cokers Meet West Newton Saturday; Go Away Tomorrow

The Connellsville High School has a game at home Saturday night. It will be the final week-end clash on the Coker schedule. West Newton is scheduled for the closing "Saturday night thriller" and a victory is expected by Connellsville although the river town five has lost few contests this year.

Tomorrow evening the Cokers go to to Dunbar Township for the last game away from home. While the township quintet has not been playing its usual brand of basketball this year, the fact that the Cokers will be the opponents will put new vim into the team and a hard fought game may be the result.

Friday, March 23, will mark the closing game on the High School schedule. It will be played with Dunbar Township on the local gym.

A second game may be arranged for between the two teams.

Says: Grandest Stomach Medicine in the World

Relief Comes at Once But Better Still Chronic Indigestion Is Conquered For Good.

Get a bottle of Dare's Mona-Pepsin from Connellsville Drug Co., today with the distinct understanding that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart is going to stop beating; yet with one dessert spoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey, in 1921, over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis, or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and health ythat you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin. Connellsville Drug Co., sells lots of it—Advertisement.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair-Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair —Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly

Get a jar of "Hair-Groom" from any druggist for a few cents and make even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stay combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.—Advertisement.

Breaks your Cold in 24 hours

DROP a Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine Tablet in a glass of water. Observe that it disintegrates within 10 seconds. Subject any other "quinine tablet" to the same experiment—and notice that it takes from 30 minutes to an hour and a half to "break up."

It's quick action you need when you sense the first sign of a cold. It's quick action you get when you take Hill's and break a cold in 24 hours, or la grippe in three days.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen of [illegible] Lester, N. Y., suffered for a long time with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided after years of ceaseless study that no one can be free from rheumatism until he accumulated impurities commonly called uric acid deposits was [illegible] from the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery while he called Allenrhu to all who could with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. IRVIN S. COBB

Is there anyone in this country who does not know the name of Irvin S. Cobb? Or what that name stands for in American literature? Judging from the way his books are taken from the public libraries—and they are too many to be named here—I should say emphatically not.

He has been and done many things—newspaper man, war correspondent, author, playwright, etc., etc. There isn't space enough to chronicle all the ground he has covered, but from the time he first began writing he has been claimed by his fellow countrymen in a way that seems to make him belong to his admirers individually. The author who touches us humorously almost never fails to do just that. But it is his serious side that also that gave us "The Belled Buzzard" series and "The Escape of Mr. Trimm" that has added to his great quota of our affections.

In "The Second Coming of Mrs. Bain's First Husband," written for the Star Author Series of Matrimonial Adventures, we have a story of marriage of striking originality. It takes up an old point—the nagging wife—in an entirely new fashion.

MARY STEWART CUTTING, JR.

If only Mrs. Thomas Bain had been content to compare Mr. Thomas Bain with men about him, he, for counter arguments, would not have been put at a serious disadvantage. Out of her ammunition locker he might have borrowed shells to fire in his own defense. Did she, for instance, cite the polished beauty of Mr. So-and-So's drawing room behavior, speaking with that subtle inflection which as good as said that his own society manners left much to be desired, Mr. Bain's rebuttal would have been prompt and ready. He would have spoken right up to point out the fact that So-and-So notoriously neglected his family or that he drunk entirely too much for his own good or that he habitually failed to pay his just debts. Mr. Bain was no scandal monger, understand. Still a man must fight back with such weapons as he may command.

But Mrs. Bain's method of attack was entirely too subtle for him. It left him practically weaponless. Out in the world he amply was competent to fend for himself. Beneath the domestic roof tree, where his wife sat in judgment on him, his ways, his small shortcomings or his larger faults, he completely was at a loss for proper rebuttal. It gave him such a helpless feeling. It would have given any normal man a helpless feeling. And Mr. Bain was in all essential regards a normal man—a good citizen, a good provider and, as husbands go, an average fair husband.

I would do Mrs. Bain no injustice. She was a normal woman, too. But it is only natural that when destiny has fashioned an advantage to fit our hands that we should employ it. Her advantage was a very great one. Her criticisms of Mr. Bain took the form of measuring him off against the conceived picture of her first husband.

And her first husband was dead. Now, in common decency, an honorable man—and Mr. Bain was an honorable man—may not speak ill of the dead. What is more, had he, under stress of provocation, been minded to retort that after all Mrs. Bain's first husband was not exactly perfection either, he could have produced no proof to support the assertion. For he had never seen his predecessor. He knew nobody who had known the deceased. The present Mrs. Bain had been for three years a widow when first he set eyes on her. She had lately returned then from Honolulu; it was in Honolulu that she had been bereft, as the saying is, by the hand of death. And Honolulu is a long distance from Brockway, Mass., where Tom Bain's people, a stay-at-home stock, had lived these five generations past.

So, on those frequently recurring occasions when Mrs. Bain with a saddened, almost a wistful, air was moved to remind herself of her first husband's marvelous qualities—temperament, disposition, tact, amiability or what not—there was for her second husband nothing to do but to suffer on in an impotent silence. It is not well that anyone on this earth—and more especially a husband—should be required to suffer discomforts in silence. Suffering calls for vocal expression.

Otherwise, as human beings go, Mr. and Mrs. Bain were well suited one for the other. It was that dead first husband of hers, who, invoked by her, kept rising up to mar the reasonable happiness which might have been theirs. The thing was getting on his nerves. Indeed, at the time this belated narrative begins, it already had got upon his nerves. He had come to the point where frequently he wished there had never been a first husband.

There were even times when he almost permitted himself the wish that there never had been such things as second husbands, either.

With the acute vividness of a war-scarred veteran remembering the first time he was shot, he could reconstruct the occasion when Mrs. Bain's former husband first came into his life. They had been married just two months then. The honeymoon was in its last quarter. If the couple were ever to go along together in harmony the time had now come when mutual understanding must succeed the period of adjustment and balance. She had the benefit of experience on her side; for she had been through the process once before. Tom Bain might be a green hand at this business of being married, but, subconsciously, he was beginning to adjust himself in his ordained and proper place in the matrimonial scheme as it related to him and this very charming lady. In other words, he had reached the place where he was slipping out of the bridegroom pose into the less studied and more matter-of-fact status of a husband. He was ready to quit acting a part and be his own self again always, though with regard for the limitations and restrictions imposed by the new estate upon which he had entered.

The campaign against him—we may as well call it a campaign—opened on the evening following their return from the trip to White Sulphur. That first day at his desk had been a hard one, so much which seemed to require his personal attention had accumulated while he was away. He left the office pretty well tired out. On his way home he built up a pleasant vision of a nice quiet little dinner and then a peaceful hour or so in the living room in slippers and an old smoking jacket.

Mrs. Bain met him at the door with a greeting that put him in thorough good humor. This, he decided, was the best of all possible worlds to live in and his, undoubtedly, was the best of all possible ways of living.

"You're late, dearest," she said. "You've just time to run upstairs and slip on your evening clothes. I've laid them out for you."

"Why, there's nobody coming in for dinner, is there?" he asked.

She drew away from him slightly.

"No, there's no one coming," she said. "What difference does that make?"

"Well," he said, "I'm rather fagged out, and I sort of thought that seeing there'd be only the two of us I'd come to the table just as I am."

"Very well, dear," she said. "Suit yourself."

But he took note that she had shortened the superlative "dearest" to "dear." Also she slipped herself out of the circlet of his encircling arm. Suddenly there was a suggestion—a bare trace—of an autumnal chill in the air.

But, as a newly married man, how could he suit himself? He clad himself in the starchy shirt, the high, tight collar that pinched his throat, the pinchy patent leathers, and all the rest of the funeral regalia in which civilized man encases himself on any supposedly festal occasion. She gave him an approving look when, ten minutes later, he presented himself before her.

"Tom," she said as they sat down, "I think you always should dress for dinner. Arthur always said that a gentleman should dress for dinner."

He stared at her, puzzled.

"Arthur?" he echoed. "Who's Arthur?"

"My first husband," she explained. "Arthur looked so well in his evening clothes."

"Oh!" he said, like that. That was all he said for a minute or so. He was thinking.

She was thinking, too. Practically all women are popularly supposed to have intuition, and certainly this particular woman had her share of it. Probably it was in that very moment of reflection that the lady decided on a future plan of action.

At any rate, this was the beginning. Eventually Mr. Bain awoke to a realization that he was the victim of a gentle tyranny—that he had fallen captive to a combination enemy made up of an affectionate if somewhat masterful lady and the memory of a dead and gone personality. Mrs. Bain's first husband was persistently dogging Mrs. Bain's second husband. Daily, after one fashion or another, the latter was reminded of the late Arthur. Arthur, it seemed, had never lost his temper. What made the comparison hurt the more was the indubitable fact that Mr. Bain occasionally did lose his. Arthur had never raised his voice above the low pitched key of innate refinement—no matter how irritated he might be. Arthur had been so tidy, never left his clothes lying about where he dropped them. Arthur had not given her a cross word in all the seven years of their life together. Arthur invariably had been so considerate of her feelings. It was Arthur this and it was Arthur that. She realized her power and she used it. Mrs. Bain's first husband was ever, so to speak, at the elbow of Mrs. Bain's second husband, by proxy chiding him, admonishing him, correcting him, scolding him, even.

And for all that he naturally was a sunny natured and companionable person, Mrs. Bain's second husband was, at the end of the first year of his married life, in a fair way to become a most unhappy person. Their matrimonial craft was sliding down the rapids toward a thundering Niagara and she didn't realize it and he thoroughly under the dominion of forces with which he found himself powerless to cope, only dimly and dully apprehended the peril. He wanted above all things to have and to hold his wife until death did them part. But always there was Arthur tagging along, making a crowd of three of what otherwise might have been a congenial company of two.

But, as some one has most aptly said, it's always darkest just before the dawn. In this instance, though, deliverance came to the oppressed not with the graduations of the spreading dawn, but rather with the solid emphasis of a bolt from the blue. There had been an evening of bridge with the Tatums and Bain, who played well, had for a partner Mrs. Tatum, who didn't. It is barely possible that he had betrayed a passing emotion of testiness once or twice. At midnight, as they were entering their home, Mrs. Bain renewed her remarks on a matter to which reference already had twice been made on the way home in the cab.

"My dear," she was saying, "I really must repeat again that to my way of thinking no amount of exasperation could have justified you in showing your feelings as you did show them at least twice at that card table. Now Arthur would never—"

At this instant Mr. Bain's finger found the push button just inside the jamb of the living room door and the lights flashed on. What next ensued—the vocal part of it, I mean—might have suggested to an eavesdropper had there been one that the vowel sounds in their proper order were being repeated by two persons laboring under strong excitement.

"Eh? That was his astounded ejaculation.

"Oo-o!" A shrill outcry, part scream, part squeal, from her.

"I—I—" Mr. Bain again.

"Oh!" Mrs. Bain's turn.

"You!" Her startled gasp of recognition.

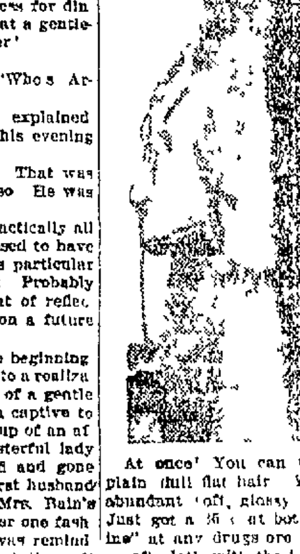

"Yes, Evelyn, that's who it is." This, in matter of fact tones, was a third voice speaking.

After this for a moment the spell of a terrible fascination held both Mr. and Mrs. Bain silent.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the oldtime recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.
